AFFAIRS IN VIRGINIA.—An intelligent and observant correspondent of a New York journal, writing from Danville, Va., June 14th, furnishes some interesting items of information about the people of that section, from which we extract the following:

THE SOCIAL AND POLITICAL SYSTEM OF VIRGINIA RUINED.

No one who has passed from eastern to western and from northern to southern boundaries, conversed with her people, and observed her condition, can help exclaiming at the dire extremity to which she is reduced. All her natural endowments, her genial climate, her rich soil, her woods and water remain, but her children are ruined. Her political and social system, in which she was wont to take great pride, is broken and overturned. All her miseries can be traced to her own acts and those of her sisters, while the only remedies she can expect are to come from that government, that people she has attacked and abused. All confess the defeat. Some twisting of words and length of logic announce the fact, but it is admitted. The first families deplore it, and are not in a position to prolong the debate; the second families accept the result, and are thankful it is no worse. The confederates painted the horrors of subjugation by the hated Yankees in such lurid colors that they have overdrawn the picture, and one-half is delighted to find that the foe is so generous and noble, while the other, like the maid in the room, are wondering when the cruel practices are to begin. Never was there so magnanimous a foe, and never had people such cause to hate their own rulers. But few of the natives here have their eyes opened to the truth, but they are growing in wisdom.

UTTER EXHAUSTION OF THE STATE.

Nothing can be more wonderful than the extreme point of destitution reached. Every nerve has been strained. The last piece of property taken which the absolute masters could take, and the Confederacy burst at the moment when it was utterly exhausted. The people and even the farmers have been robbed to supply the soldiers, and the whole business and occupation of its people turned to the war channel. Its railroad transportation must have given out in another year if they had not been defeated in the field. Many curse Jeff. Davis and his colleagues for not making peace a year before, as they say the result of the contest was plain so long ago. Here Jeff. Davis issued his last proclamation declaring that he would never give up the contest and so forth. The poor whites at the South now speak of him in the same terms as the people of the North.

POOR WHITES.

The ignorance of the white people here is amazing. Out of the thousands who are daily taking the oath, only about five per cent. can read and write. This may be construed that this class of the population only is swearing allegiance. Other inquiries, however, satisfy me that the amount of ignorance is unequaled anywhere in the North. In speech, in manners, in all but their docility and industry, they resemble very closely the negroes they despise.

CONCERNING THE LATE CONFEDERACY.

Everything now dates during the war or since the war. The fall of Richmond is considered to have been the fall of the Confederacy. When Jeff. Davis arrived here, and during his stay, he was shown but little attention, and, even at this early day, he must have perceived that not to succeed is the greatest misfortune as well as blunder man can make.

HAMPTON ROADS CONFERENCE.—In the Augusta, Georgia, Chronicle of June 7th appears a full account of the conference held near Fortress Monroe in January last. The article is understood to have been prepared at the instance of A. H. Stephens. It corroborates the statement often made that nothing but the obstinacy of Jeff. Davis then prevented the rebellious South from yielding to the Government. The Chronicle says:

Davis did not communicate to the public with regard to the conference. Stephens says Davis sent for him to say to Mr. Blair that he desired a conference between the authorities of the United States and the South upon the subject of peace, and asked Stephens' advice. He replied Mr. Blair spoke by authority of President Lincoln; he most earnestly advised a conference, and recommended that the strictest secrecy be used, and that the conferees be President Lincoln and Davis, and Generals Grant and Lee; they to be the only persons to know of the meeting. Davis disregarded it. Mr. Stephens was informed two days later that himself Hunter and Campbell were to go. Stephens did not wish to go, but did go to avoid unfriendly remarks. These Southern gentlemen met Messrs. Lincoln and Seward, and after some remarks the subject of peace was opened. Mr. Stephens urged the claims of his section with the skill and address for which Northern papers have given him credit, Lincoln holding the vantage ground of conscious power. He was perfectly frank, and submitted his views almost in form of argument. The Commissioner made a report, saying that Lincoln referred them to his message, as to the last refusing in any way to recognize the Confederate Government or acknowledge Davis' power to make peace. Lincoln assured them they might rely on a liberal exercise of the pardoning power. He suggested it would be far better for the rebellious States to return at once than to risk the chances of continued war, and increasing bitterness of feeling in Congress. Mr. Stephens reported to Davis that nothing had been done, that nothing was determined, and if he relied upon the sincerity of Mr. Blair, the conference was a confirmation of a desire for peace on the part of the United States and the way open for settlement. Davis looked upon the proposal as insulting, and seemed to have the concurrence of Hunter in that view. He wished a statement to go before the public that only insulting terms were tendered, but Congress declined to make it on the ground that it was not true; with some difficulty they secured reception of a brief and perfectly truthful but not very clear report that was published, and Davis put a coloring to it, and endeavored to secure his object of crushing the Southern peace party by inflammatory despatches all over the country, followed by the actual report with preface, which was published at the time.

BOOKS.—A learned writer says of books: "They are masters who instruct us without rods or ferules, without words of anger, without bread or money. If you approach them, they are not asleep; if you seek them, they do not hide; if you blunder, they do not scold; if you are ignorant, they do not laugh at you. Few things are more entertaining than to pore over a book stall. There are few here as they have them in Europe in the open street, where a passer-by may saunter, look at the various titles or dip into a volume. This is rather to be lamented for loungers, aye, even for book worms, as great lovers of books are called. The latter person often seeks works that are not to be found elsewhere, and is often treated with novelty amid old musty rubbish that no one could ever suppose contained anything new. And then you are smitten by the cheapness, or what you think is cheapness; for be it known, that whenever you see a book you like and are determined to buy, it was always cheap. A book does not come to you as an intruder. You seek it and by reflecting as you read, you hold converse with a new acquaintance; you compare each other's minds without danger of a violent collision. If you do not approve of what he says, you turn from him quietly, without hard words passing. If you approve, you dwell upon the expressions and read them over again. Here is at once a double pleasure. La Bruyere says: 'When a person of any feeling and discernment reads a book, and it excites in him elevated thoughts, he may be sure the work is good, and he needs no other mode of proving it.'"

PRESIDENT JOHNSON made a very significant remark a short time ago to a delegation of Quakers, who called upon him to talk about negro suffrage. Col. Forney, in one of his "occasional letters," reports it as follows:

"You tell me, friends, of the liberation of the colored people of the South, whose friend I have always been, and whose protector I am resolved to be, but," and his countenance glowed with a peculiar feeling as he asked the question, "have you ever thought of the millions of Southern white people that have been liberated by the war?" Upon such a text we need no preaching, and certainly no long letters.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

TUESDAY MORNING AUGUST 1[illegible], 1865

The Oath of Allegiance

There are none [illegible] who must be glad to see th[illegible] who were lately in arms against the government, come forward with willingness and [illegible] subscribe to the oath of allegiance that is [illegible] required of them. Though the pretended [illegible] federate Government [illegible] no renunciation of allegiance to its usurped authority necessary, even by any outward form, it is of use to the Government to receive the oath of fealty from those of whom this assurance of loyal behavior for the future is required. The use of it is both to restrain the late rebels from further acts of disloyalty, and to put them into such a position in relation to the Government that if they hereafter do anything inimical to the peace of the United States they may be summarily and severely punished both for sedition and for perjurious conduct.

The oath of fealty is on one side, a solemn promise of loyal conduct thereafter, and on the other, a species of pardon to those who have been guilty of disloyalty. It is a pacificatory measure, intended to prepare the way for future harmony between the Government and those who chose to be hostile to it. But there are some who seem resolved that it shall not answer the ends for which it was instituted. They do not desire the Government to derive any security from the obligations which men who have hitherto been seditious and turbulent now place themselves under. Hence they counsel such persons to take every oath that the authorities may prescribe and then by their unconscionable conduct to violate the spirit of their solemn promises. If the Southern States can thus be kept in an attitude of antagonism to the General Government these officious marplots will be quite content.

Not long ago a no less person than Reverdy Johnson, gave it as his opinion that the oath of fealty which in certain cases the Government now requires, is not morally binding upon those of whom it is exacted. This senator went almost to the extreme of advising the late rebels to disregard it utterly and to denounce themselves just as if they had placed themselves under no obligation for future obedience. Such advice and such opinions are not worthy of any one who aspires to be known as a moralist and a jurist. Nearly all the half-treasonable newspapers of the country have uttered similar opinions and sentiments. The murderer, George N. Sanders, recently gave advice of a like kind. The turpitude of such suggestions as these may be illustrated by the fable of Milton, in the place where he shows that even Satan disdained to do so base a thing as to swear a false allegiance for the purpose of [illegible] a pretended reconciliation.

Every loyal man, and every person who desires order and peace, will show those who now take the oath of [illegible], that they are expected to [illegible] faithful to their promises. Harmony and good feeling will thus have opportunity to grow. When these men are told that they ought not to be held to accountability for the violation of their pledges, a great wrong is done both to them and the Government. Such unguarded and ill-advised expressions can only serve to inflame [illegible] moderation, minds which are already full of [illegible] and distrust.

CALIFORNIA.—All our California exchanges [illegible] to us [illegible] with [illegible] relating to the political [illegible] that is going on in that State. Just now the Union men of California are making nom[illegible] all over the State, for members of the [illegible] and for county officers. The chief point of dispute is about who shall be made United States Senator. The friends of Governor Low seem determined that he shall obtain Senatorial honors; but they are taking precisely the wrong course to [illegible] him to get them. In a few counties the Low men are in a minority, and when beaten in Convention they "bolt" and nominate [illegible] tickets. In four or five counties this has been [illegible], but in every instance only a few persons are found who are willing to join the movement. The Copperheads will not find the Union party of California divided so as to let their opponents in, and we may be sure that the Constitutional Amendment abolishing slavery—the measure on which the issue will be made between the two parties—will be passed the coming winter by the new Legislature of the pioneer Pacific State.

[illegible] THE DEMOCRACY.—The war was commenced [illegible] yet their objects have not been [illegible]

"Why, indeed, Sir Oracle, you speak true." But are you not [illegible] your discomfited "Democracy" [illegible] rightfully, when by confessing their failure, you [illegible] them of the smart of [illegible]. True it is, however, that no [illegible] has ever failed so signally as has that for which the late war was begun. The "objects" which have not been accomplished" were, the [illegible] of these States, the achievement of Southern [illegible], and the [illegible]. Ever since the time when the [illegible] declared that "[illegible] Hill, [illegible] Butler and a host of [illegible] Democracy to save the Union" we do not [illegible] that it has contained [illegible] so true a [illegible] as that "the war was [illegible], yet those objects have not been accomplished."

CLEAR OF ICE.—"South Boise" the Sacramento Union's Idaho correspondent, complains against [illegible] to Boise and Owyhee by way of Portland, Dalles and Umatilla, because the Columbia [illegible] is [illegible] up a portion of the winter. Credible witnesses, we think, can be found who will testify to "South Boise" that the Columbia is now free from ice and has been so for some weeks. We are somewhat anxious for him to become acquainted with this undoubted fact, since his last letter seems to indicate that he is harboring the delusion that the river is in the same condition as when it was when blockaded by ice last January.

[illegible]—Your party is one great mob: your [illegible] have ruled the country by mob law for the [illegible] four years.

So says a Confederate newspaper. Sure enough what terrible engines of destruction those mobs which followed Grant and Sherman were. Not a city of the South but whose walls they battered down and entered, and that just in time to extinguish the conflagrations which the former occupants left behind them.

NEW JERSEY.—The coming political contest in New Jersey will be one of uncommon interest. The Union State Convention of that State was to have met on the 20th of July to nominate a candidate for Governor. The issue made before the people will be on the Constitutional Amendment to abolish slavery. The Amendment will go through this time. The people are awake and the soldiers are at home.

Hon. J. M. Ashley of Ohio left Salt Lake on the 8th of July for Virginia City, Montana. He will pass through Idaho, down the [illegible] river and round the coast to San Francisco. We are not informed at what time he will be here, probably in a few weeks.

The new mines on the middle fork of John Day river are said to be very rich. Statements corroborating previous reports are daily received.

The wealth of Connecticut, distributed among its inhabitants, would give it is said $980 to each person.

Minnesota sent more than half her voting population to the war.

The Murder of Sumner Pinkham

Idaho City, I. T., July [illegible], 186[illegible]

[illegible]

The [illegible] event [illegible] considerably ex[illegible] occurred here about five o'clock [illegible] yesterday. I will undertake briefly to state the facts as they appeared in proof before the coroner's jury last evening. The public require nothing more for the present. Sumner Pinkham, ex-sheriff of this county, was shot and killed [illegible] at the Warm Spring Baths, [illegible] below [illegible] Patterson [illegible] Staples. The [illegible] as to the [illegible] substantial [illegible] yesterday after [illegible] visited the Springs in company with some friends, and soon after Patterson, Ned James, Bill Terry and a man by the name of [illegible] all [illegible] went to the Springs in a carriage. On their arrival Pinkham was [illegible] on the [illegible] condition of the [illegible] Confederacy and rejoicing at the misfortunes of Jeff Davis in particular. On entering the bar-room the first salutation of Patterson was very abusive and created a little [illegible] for the time, but it soon subsided, and everything was thought to be amicably settled. Patterson and his party [illegible] in about half an hour he came out and walked straight up to Pinkham and repeat[illegible] words [illegible] instantly fired, the ball taking effect in the left breast and coming out on the right side, a little above the [illegible]. Pinkham then drew his revolver and while in the act of drawing Patterson fired again and hit him in the [illegible], the ball passing through the arm and lodging in the cavity of the [illegible]. Pinkham died instantly without uttering a word [illegible]. The friends of Patterson [illegible] and took one of the horses out from the carriage; they went [illegible] and saddled him, when Patterson mounted it and rode hurriedly away [illegible] City. In a few minutes the sheriff [illegible] in hot pursuit. They caught him about twenty miles below and brought him back and lodged him in jail. Meantime Ned James was arrested as an accomplice, and I am informed that a man by the name of Billings is also charged with having a hand in the affair and that [illegible] after him. The [illegible] District Court is sitting here at this time and it is to be hoped that the excitement can be kept down long enough for the law to have its legitimate effect, but there are some fears apprehended of a gigantic mob taking the matter into their hands and executing summary vengeance. Your correspondent is of the opinion that the assassination was prompted by some [illegible] spirit that [illegible] life of [illegible]. Pinkham is wrapped in his favorite flag, the glorious old stars and stripes. He had an[illegible] for some [illegible] that some of the imps of secession here would attempt his assassination and had requested if his [illegible] in case such a thing should occur to wrap his body in the flag of our country. His funeral will take place to-morrow at [illegible] P. M. He had many warm friends in the Territory more, perhaps, than any other man in it.

The good men of the country not only here, but in Oregon will be obliged before peaceful order is restored in society to rise in their majesty and clean the whole rampant brood of ruffians and thieves to the bed rock. This country is swarming with them, and there are so many in Oregon—great organized bands of them—that in some localities it is very difficult to convict in the Courts. I will give you the facts relating to the foregoing transaction as they occur from time to time. Patterson will be tried soon. Judge Kelly is now holding Court. McBride is expected here next Saturday. OSO.

THE PIRATE.—The San Francisco Alta of July 20th has the following about the Shenandoah, which was not telegraphed here in full:

When the Mela was ordered to call for this port Captain Hawes asked for provisions enough to feed the large number of men on board when he was told to take whatever he wanted out of one of the captured vessels, which he did before she was fired. As she was about parting company with the pirate Captain Hawes saw him run down and speak a hermaphrodite brig, which from her appearance, was supposed to be the Susan Abigail of this port. If such was the case, the Captain of the Shenandoah would receive papers with news to about the 15th of May, showing the collapse of the whole rebellion.

One of the captured captains was told by an officer of the pirate that they should continue to burn and destroy every American craft they could fall in with for ninety days after the reception of news of peace, unless it was officially announced by the rebel Government, that he would not believe news he saw in American papers about the war, but was satisfied with the truth of such news as they should get in the English papers. When told by an officer that the rebellion was gone in, that had received a letter showing that fact, that there was no mistake about the end of the war, etc., he was rudely told that they did not believe him, and could not be fooled by Yankee tricks.

It was very much feared that unless the French ship and the open whale boat expedition of Captain Nye could succeed in warning the whalers all of them would be captured. Their custom was such that they all could be found. As the ice breaks up in the month of June the whale fleet hover along its southern edge drawing closer and closer together as they approach Behring Straits. A current setting northward through the Straits, drives the broken ice before it, and when the passage is opening in the Straits, the whalers all push together to the fishing grounds in the Arctic Ocean. On this account, with the renegade pilot to guide her, the pirate would, in a few days succeed in destroying all these vessels, and then, as was told one of the released prisoners, sail for the American coast, destroy things generally. The officers of the pirate claim that she can run fourteen miles an hour with sails and steam, can sail around any ordinary vessel, and make ten knots an hour under steam.

When the Sophia Thornton was captured she was in among the ice looking her way up North. The first intimation the Captain had of any hostile intent was a shot which fell some distance astern. The Shenandoah was then about two and a half miles distant. This hint was taken, and an effort made to get the ship under way for the land. Another smoke from the side of the pirate was seen, and in a few seconds a shell passed over the ship's masts showing she was in range and seeing the efforts to escape were hopeless, she had to surrender. He afterwards learned that the third shot was ordered to be put into her. The guns fired were rifled 30 pounders.

The Shenandoah is a full clipper ship rigged propeller having hollow iron masts and wire rigging. She carries all the improved methods for reefing, furling and setting sails from deck. Has rolling topsails, royals and a fly at each mast head. Is about 230 feet long. Her hull is of iron frame covered with wood, rather weak. In fact, they have so little confidence in her force of resistance that her officers keep her out of range of shot. She is a fast sailer and a fast steamer and they calculate to effect more damage by surprise than by action. Her armament consists of four 64 pounders, two rifled 32 pounders, and two rifled 12 pounders. Her commander is named Waddell and he was formerly an officer of the United States Navy. Her third officer is a nephew of General Lee and another officer is named Mason, a relative of Mason the rebel representative to Europe. He said that they would not burn whalers as the ship was within a marine league of the Russian coast. Her crew is composed of Kanakas, English, Irish, Scotch and a few Americans, numbering 100 in all. On her stern can still be seen a part of her old name, The Sea King, the whole not being obliterated by paint. A captain of an English steamer joined the Shenandoah at Melbourne.

THE SUEZ CANAL.—The great canal for connecting the Red Sea with the Mediterranean is so advanced as to be navigable for small barges through the whole length, with the exception of one point where a large lock is in process of construction, a transhipment is required at this place. The advance of the work to this stage was celebrated on the 5th of April by what was called an opening of the canal, though the opening was which has been so generally celebrated.

The canal when completed will be about 100 miles long, at 320 feet wide at the water line, with its bottom 26 feet below the bottom of the Mediterranean. The projector of the enterprise is M. F. de Lesseps, a Frenchman, who obtained a grant in 1854 from the Egyptian Government. He then formed a [illegible] company of $40,000,000 on condition that 7½ per cent of the profits should be divided among the stockholders, 15 per cent should be paid to the Egyptian Government, and 10 per cent should be paid to the originators of the enterprise. Of this amount of the stock was taken up $18,000,000 by the Egyptian Government and the remainder by capitalists in Paris and London. It is stated that contracts have been made for the completion of the several parts of the work by the 1st of July 1868. The distance from New York to Bombay in India is now by the Cape of Good Hope 18,000 miles. By the way of the Suez canal it will be 11,983 miles, the new route thus shortening the voyage more than 7,000 miles.

It is said by a Montreal paper that leading rebels have on deposit in the banks of that city [illegible] less than $10,000,000.

[illegible] —We have been handed a communication on [illegible] of city sewage by an [illegible] citizen [illegible] grounds in favor of the adoption of a method [illegible] which is quite essential to the preservation of [illegible] health of the city. It is written in a plain, direct [illegible] and reflects somewhat on the tardiness of the [illegible] for its seeming neglect in this great want [illegible] which was deferred yesterday and upon making inquiry in regard to the matter of sewage we are [illegible] that plans are about to be adopted [illegible] of the city and [illegible] We have endeavored [illegible] time to time the great sanitary [illegible] among through sickness because of the bad state [illegible] and we agree with our worthy contributor [illegible] cause of much sickness [illegible] account of the stench arising from stagnant and pols [illegible] pools all over the city which is prevented [illegible] for the want of sewers. If a city government [illegible] that the matter of expense should never [illegible] the least, be the consideration in the [illegible] for the preservation of health. [illegible] in such case it is sheer folly to talk about it as the life of one man, woman, or child is of far more value than will be all the [illegible] thrown into paltry dollars and cents. At this time it is absolutely sickening to pass Salmon street or Main street [illegible] of Front street, and [illegible] sewers are as [illegible] at each alternate East and West street at least, through [illegible] the city before any permanent improvement is completed it will be poor economy as the streets so improved will [illegible] have to be torn up again in a short time to put down the sewers.

MATCH FACTORY.—In our [illegible] the city yesterday we accidentally came upon the Oregon Match Factory in a somewhat obscure building on the corner of [illegible] and Seventh streets. The place having [illegible] inviting appearance, and our idea of a branch [illegible] we made a call. We found Mr. J. P. Walsh, the maker, and an apprentice [illegible] engaged at the factory. [illegible] and we witnessed the operation. Mr. Walsh has met the usual obstacles in the way of introducing [illegible] in a community like this [illegible] and close application [illegible] he hopes in the course of the next twelve months to surmount all difficulties and [illegible] modern appliances [illegible] proportion to the population of the Pacific Coast [illegible] very likely no part of the world that consumes [illegible] of matches, and yet there is scarcely a [illegible] or the smallest [illegible] turn up at the familiar [illegible] and they are often willing to stretch a dozen highly colored, gay and dandy specimens of an imported article, rather than put up with a home [illegible] quality, which is certainly as good. The matches made in this city we can find no objection to [illegible] not be offensive to the olfactory nerves [illegible] than the imported article, just as good for lighting [illegible] mistake will the Oregon match factory will be [illegible] the foolish prejudice.

POLICE COURT PROCEEDINGS.—There was [illegible] deal [illegible] the Police Court yesterday [illegible] Justice Hoffman [illegible] show the dark side of life, and tending to [illegible] in the good name of Portland, and bring into disesteem the creditable reports in circulation for the sobriety of our inhabitants than has ever before occurred in the annals of that office at any one time. MR. LINCOLN AS A PUBLIC SPEAKER.—Moncure D. Conway, a Virginian, in some "Personal Recollections of President Lincoln," contributed to an English periodical, gives the following:

His manner of speaking in public was simple, direct, and almost religious; he was occasionally humorous, but rarely told anecdotes as he did in private conversation, and there was no sarcasm or showing of the teeth. I had not listened to him long on the occasion to which I refer before I perceived that there was a certain artistic ability in him as a public speaker which his audience would least recognise when it was most employed. Early in the address some adverse allusion to slavery brought a surge of hisses, but when it broke at his feet there was a play of a faint smile on his face as he gathered from it the important knowledge of the exact proportion of Kentucky which he had to deal with on the occasion. I have often wondered that Mr. Lincoln's power as an orator—surpassed as it is by that of only one other American—is so little known or thought of in Europe; and I have even found the impression that he was a speaker awkward, heavy and ungrammatical. It is a singular misjudgment. For terse, well pronounced, clear speech, for a careful and easy selection of the fit word for the right place; for perfect tones, for quiet, chaste and dignified manner—it would be hard to find the late President's superior.

He said with an emphasis which made the proposition seem novel, "Slavery is wrong!"—then came the hiss. After a moment's pause he continued—each word driven through and clenched—"I acknowledge that you must maintain your opposition just there, if at all. But I find that every man comes into the world with a mouth to be fed and a back to be clothed; that each has also two hands; and, I infer that those hands were meant to feed that mouth and to clothe that back. And I warn you Kentuckians, that whatever institution would fetter those hands from so doing, violates that justice which is the only political wisdom, and is sure to crumble around those who seek to uphold it. This is the constant testimony of the men who founded this republic. It was this that made Jefferson tremble for his country when he remembered that God is just, and this that [illegible] your own great statesman Henry Clay, say that his tongue might cleave to the roof of his mouth ere it voted to carry slavery into any territory where it did not exist. Your hisses will not blow down the walls of justice. Slavery is wrong, the denial of that truth has brought on the angry conflict of brother with brother, it has kindled the fires of civil war in Kansas; it has raised the portents that overhang the future of our nation. And be you sure that no compromise, no political arrangement with slavery will ever last, which does not deal with it as a great wrong." The Kentuckians had no sibilant arguments to bring forward now.

TRANS-MISSISSIPPI BEFORE SURRENDER.—The New Orleans Picayune says:

We learn from Union prisoners direct from Texas, and the last to come out, that long before the surrender of Kirby Smith the Trans-Mississippi army was already in process of disintegration. It has long been known that this army, composed for the most part of conscripts, were with difficulty kept within their organizations, and in no case could they be induced to cross to the eastern side of the river. This state of things was due, also, in part to the incompetency and bad conduct of commanding Generals and subalterns, Quartermasters and Commissaries especially, many of whom were in very bad odor throughout the country. Some of them, indeed, are said to have left it suddenly and with considerable spoils in the shape of cotton and gold, and will probably never return.

It is not surprising, therefore, that when the news of Lee's, Johnson's and Taylor's surrender reached the western side that army also disbanded, as it were, of itself. Not only individuals but even regiments and battalions are said to have thrown down their arms and left immediately for their homes. Even the guard around the great stockade at Tyler deserted and left their prisoners to go where they pleased. Those remaining were principally from Illinois, Indiana and New York, some 1,700 in all, who will, doubtless, most of them, soon be at their homes.

The difficulties of reaching our lines however were very great on account of the deserted condition of the country and disorganized state of the Confederate forces. There was no transportation anywhere to be had, no supplies at Quartermasters' posts—all the posts had in fact been deserted and the men had best to work their way along and supply themselves as they could.

The surrender of Kirby Smith and his army was therefore but a matter of form. It no longer had the elements of an army, either discipline, Confederate sympathy or organization, but only the strong arms and patriotic spirit of brave men which under the advancing music of Union were already enlisted in the national cause. Of all the States of the Union none is more individually bound to it either by interest or sound principle, than the so-called Lone Star.

And under the promptings of this patriotic spirit not only Texas, but the whole Trans-Mississippi, have saved themselves a world of woe. Had it been otherwise had their army been organized in the spirit of Davis, and under Davis as a leader it might have long protracted the war and brought countless woes upon all. As it is Northern Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas have not only saved themselves the continued desolation of war but salute the return of peace with good cheer and prepared to enter upon a wonderful career of prosperity.

AMERICAN BELLES.—America is justly proud of her beautiful ladies, but how many mar their beauty and lose their health and youth become prematurely old in appearance by neglecting to take proper care of their teeth. There can be no excuse for this as Sozodont, pronounced by all worthy a place between the sweetest lips, can now be had in all civilized countries.

The Emancipation Proclamation—Its Private History

In the Independent Mr. F. B. Carpenter [illegible] gives his [illegible] Recollections of Mr. Lincoln. It was early in February 1864 [illegible] the artist [illegible] of Washington, with the [illegible] of painting his great picture, "Emancipation" [illegible] before the Cabinet.

"My first interview with the President," says Mr. Carpenter, "took place the next day, at the customary Saturday afternoon public reception. Never shall I forget the thrill which went through my whole being as I first caught sight of that tall, gaunt form, through a distant door, bowed down, it seemed to me, even then with the weight of the nation he carried upon his heart, as a mother carries her offspring, hold and thought of the place he held in the affections of the people, and the prayers ascending constantly day after day in his behalf. The crowd was passing through the rooms, and presently it was my turn and name to be announced. Greeting me very pleasantly, he soon afterwards made an appointment to see me in his official chamber, in [illegible] after the close of the 'reception.' The hour named found me at the well-remembered door of the apartment—that door watched daily with so many conflicting emotions of hope and fear by the miscellaneous throng gathered there. The President was alone and already deep in official business, which was always pressing. He received me in the frank kindness and simplicity so characteristic of his nature, and after reading Mr. Lovejoy's note, said: 'Well, Mr. Carpenter, we will turn you in loose here, and try to give you a good chance to work out your idea.' Then giving me a place close beside his own arm chair, he entered upon the account which I shall now attempt to write out, as nearly as possible in his own words, of the circumstances attending the adoption of the emancipation policy."

We now quote Mr. Carpenter's account:

"I now take up the history of the Proclamation itself, as Mr. Lincoln gave it to me on the occasion of our first interview, as written by myself soon afterward.

"'It had got to be,' said he, 'midsummer, 1862. Things had gone on from bad to worse until I felt that we had reached the end of our rope on the plan of operations we had been pursuing; that we had about played out our card, and must change our tactics, or lose the game! I now determined upon the adoption of the emancipation policy; and without consultation with, or knowledge of the Cabinet, I prepared the original draft of the proclamation, and, after much anxious thought, called a meeting upon the subject. This was the last of July, or the first part of the month of August, 1862.' (The exact date he did not remember.) 'This Cabinet meeting took place, I think, upon a Saturday. All were present excepting Mr. Blair, the Postmaster General, who was absent at the opening of the discussion, but came in subsequently. I said to the Cabinet that I had resolved upon this step, and had not called them together to ask their advice, but to lay the subject matter of a proclamation before them; suggestions as to which would be in order after they had heard it read. Mr. Lovejoy,' said he, 'was in error when he informed you that it excited no comment, except on the part of Secretary Seward. Various suggestions were offered. Secretary Chase wished the language stronger in reference to the arming of the blacks. Mr. Blair, after he came in, deprecated the policy, on the ground that it would cost the Administration the fall elections. Nothing, however, was offered that I had not already anticipated and settled in my own mind, until Secretary Seward spoke. Said he: "Mr. President, I approve of the proclamation, but I question the expediency of its issue at this juncture. The depression of the public mind, consequent upon our repeated reverses, is so great that I fear the effect of so important a step. It may be viewed as the last measure of an exhausted Government—a cry for help; the Government stretching forth its hands to Ethiopia, instead of Ethiopia stretching forth her hands to the Government."' 'His idea,' said the President, 'was that it would be considered our last shriek on the retreat.' (This was his precise expression.) '"Now," continued Mr. Seward, "while I approve the measure, I suggest, sir, that you postpone its issue until you can give it to the country supported by military success, instead of issuing it, as would be the case now, upon the greatest disasters of the war."' Said Mr. Lincoln: 'The wisdom of the view of the Secretary of State struck me with very great force. It was an aspect of the case that, in all my thoughts upon the subject, I had entirely overlooked. The result was that I put the draft of the proclamation aside, as you do your sketch for a picture, waiting for a victory. From time to time I added or changed a line, touching it up here and there, waiting the progress of events. Well, the next news we had was of Pope's disaster at Bull's Run. Things looked darker than ever. Finally came the week of the battle of Antietam. I determined to wait no longer. The news came, I think, on Wednesday, that the advantage was on our side. I was then staying at the "Soldiers' Home," three miles out of Washington. Here I finished writing the second draft of the preliminary proclamation; came up on Saturday, called the Cabinet together to hear it, and it was published the following Monday.'

"'It was a somewhat remarkable fact,'" he continued, "'that there was just one hundred days between the dates of the two proclamations, issued upon the 22d day of September and the 1st day of January. I had not made the calculation at the time.'

"At the final meeting on Saturday another interesting incident occurred in connection with Secretary Seward. The President had written the important part of the proclamation in these words:

"'That on the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, all persons held as slaves within any State, or designated part of a State, the people whereof shall then be in rebellion against the United States, shall be then, thenceforward and forever FREE; and the Executive Government of the United States, including the military and naval authority thereof, will recognize the freedom of such persons, and will do no act or acts to repress such persons, or any of them, in any efforts they may make for their actual freedom.' 'When I finished reading this paragraph,'" resumed Mr. Lincoln, "'Mr. Seward stopped me and said: "I think, Mr. President, that you should insert after the word 'recognize' in that sentence, the words 'and maintain.'" I replied that I had already fully considered the import of that expression in this connection, but I had not introduced it, because it was not my way to promise what I was not entirely sure that I could perform, and I was not prepared to say that I thought we were exactly able to "maintain" this.'

"'But,' said he, 'Mr. Seward insisted that we ought to take this ground, and the words finally went in.'

* * * * * * * *

"In February last, a few days after the passage of the 'Constitutional Amendment,' I was in Washington, and was received by Mr. Lincoln with the kindness and familiarity which had characterized our previous intercourse. I said one day that I was very proud to have been the artist to have first conceived of the design of painting a picture commemorative of the Act of Emancipation—that subsequent occurrences had only confirmed my own first judgment of that act as the most sublime moral event in our history. 'Yes,' said he, and never do I remember to have noticed in him more earnestness of expression or manner, 'as affairs have turned, it is the central act of my Administration, and the great event of the nineteenth century.'

"I remember to have asked him on one occasion if there was not some opposition manifested on the part of several members of the Cabinet to the emancipation policy. He said, in reply: 'Nothing more than I have stated to you. Mr. Blair thought we should lose the fall elections, and opposed it on that ground only.'

"Said I, 'I have understood that Secretary Smith was not in favor of your action. Mr. Blair told me that when the meeting closed, he and the Secretary of the Interior went away together, and that the latter told him if the President carried out that policy he might count on losing Indiana, sure.' 'He never said anything of the kind to me,' returned the President. 'And how,' said I, 'does Mr. Blair feel about it now?' 'Oh,' was the prompt reply, 'he proved right in regard to the fall elections, but he was satisfied that we have since gained more than we lost.'

"'I have been told,' said I, 'that Judge Bates doubted the constitutionality of the Proclamation.'

"'He never expressed such an opinion in my hearing,' replied Mr. Lincoln. 'No member of the Cabinet ever dissented from the policy in any conversation with me.'"

Mrs. Swisshelm's Opinion of the White House.—In a letter to the New York Tribune, Mrs. Jane Swisshelm says:

The dignity of the Presidential office would seem to require that there should be a modest [illegible] comfortable ante rooms in which persons having business with the President might sit down, enjoy Heaven's light and air, and get a drink of water if thirsty. The visitors to the heads of the departments are thus accommodated, while ladies waiting to see the President stand sometimes all day, or sit on the floor in a dark hall or room, without an outside door or window. The room used as a waiting room in the Executive Mansion is separated from the southern half of the house by a passage or partition, the upper part of which is glass and affords a view of six inches of the top of two windows. The outdoor opens into a dark unventilated hall, and the air in both is simply [illegible] Remaining where [illegible] as they usually are [illegible] crowded [illegible] [illegible] pair of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] story and center table and a half [illegible] boxes with the [illegible] many [illegible] the entire furniture [illegible] [illegible] one hundred [illegible] at one time and there are seats for just six persons in those third rate boarding house apartments. This White House is a disgrace to the nation. With its alone walls painted to imitate marble, with its tawdry gilding, its [illegible] story, and a disregard of the comfort, health and convenience of the people, who [illegible] legitimate business [illegible] the President [illegible] United States [illegible] [illegible] commensurate with the business of his office and a competent [illegible] [illegible] The business of the nation demands it.

Going Home.—Several Texan refugees of some note will start to-day by the steamer [illegible] Among them is Mr. Cleaveland, who in early times was a law partner of the late Col. Baker in San Francisco. Mr. Cleaveland returned to Texas some years since, made his escape from there and came here through Mexico after the breaking out of the rebellion, and now that peace has come at last, goes back to his [illegible] to spend the remainder of his days. Others are preparing to do the same at an early day.—Alta, July 21st.

A Mobile letter writer says: "On my journey from the Alabama I met and conversed with the celebrated Capt. Semmes, of the Alabama. He [illegible] kind mad and ragged."

2. Head letters with the writer's post office and State, street and number, sign them plainly with full name, and request that answers be directed accordingly.

3. Letters to strangers or transient visitors in a town or city, whose special address may be unknown, should be marked, in the lower left-hand corner, with the word "Transient."

4. Place the postage stamp on the upper right-hand corner, and leave space between the stamp and direction for post-marking without interfering with the writing.

N. B.—A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days or less, written or printed with the writer's name, post office and State, across the left-hand end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with at the usual prepaid rate of postage, payable when the letter is delivered to the writer.—Sec. 28, Law of 1863.

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS,

Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS ATTENDED this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions to the debilitated and shattered system. In fact, it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also—

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY,
LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS,

And in every disease connected with the disorder or decay of the Procreative Functions. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

CONSTITUTION WATER,

Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once rebraced, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the

MEDICAL WONDER.

The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man; he stands erect, he moves with a firm step, his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom or an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active, and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor. The medicine can be the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it [illegible]

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE BLADDER, INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS AND
CATARRH OF THE BLADDER,
STRANGURY AND BURNING,
OR PAINFUL
URINATING,
CALCULUS, GRAVEL,
BRICK DUST DEPOSIT, AND MUCOUS
OR MILKY DISCHARGES AFTER URINATING

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms. TRY IT in these cases, and you will ever give praise.

CONSTITUTION WATER,

Males or Females,

Are you troubled with that distressing pain in the small of the back, and through the hips? CONSTITUTION WATER will relieve you like magic.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

Safe Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen: From the [illegible] by Mr. Lillie I was induced to purchase [illegible]

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last a fire occurred in the block which destroyed a number of buildings, and ours with the rest. We trusted our books, papers &c. all in the safe. After the fire the so-called "safe" was taken from the ruins and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe with what is left of the papers and you will see that not one of them is legible, or a thing enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we went to McKeon & Hardy, just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make) and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar—such as lard, pork, etc.—their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the clothing business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire, faring, however, no better than ours.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,
(Signed) GEO. D. CHESBORO & CO.

TILTON & McFARLAND'S SAFE,

The Only Protection Against Fire and Burglars.

For the last Fifteen Years

This Safe has been well known in California and the Eastern States. They have resisted all the fires on the Pacific Coast, and we can point with satisfaction to the record that out of one of our Safes by means of Burglars. Their fire and burglar proof qualities are so well known that they need no further recommendation.

A good assortment of Tilton & McFarland's Fire and Burglar Proof Safes to be had at 218 Battery Street, San Francisco.

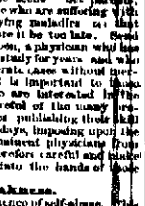
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs, successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London were among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St. Mary's, Cambridge Place, Paddington; Lock, Harrow road; St. Luke's, Old street; University, Gower street; Westminster, Broad Sanctuary; Charing Cross, Agar street, Strand; Free, Whitechapel road; Royal Free, Gray's Inn Road; King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton, of London, Parker of Birmingham, England, and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life destroying maladies, so that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Prevention Better than Cure.

The newly invented Patent French Safe, a sure Preventive against Disease and Pregnancy, sent by mail. Price $2. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney St., near Commercial, San Francisco. Post office Box 1957.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretended doctors, with bogus diplomas, certificates and the like. Some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are Humbugs, shoemakers, newspaper [illegible] Look at the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their names [illegible]

[illegible] The only way to avoid [illegible] Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.
